Hello!

We are Kevin and Robbin, and we’re so excited to be growing our family through adoption. Your selfless choice to pursue an adoption plan is both courageous and inspiring. Thank you so much for giving us the chance to share a bit about our lives with you.
Robbin is a middle school band teacher, and Kevin is a service dog trainer for children and adults with physical disabilities. We met in college in 2006, and we became the best of friends quickly. Within a year we fell in love and started dating. Last year, surrounded by our friends and family, we got married in New York City.

Family is the most important thing to us. Robbin is an amazing cook, and we frequently have folks over for dinner for great food and time spent together. Kevin loves photography and teaching our dogs new tricks. We’re both physically active. Robbin likes to run and work out, and Kevin does yoga.

We believe in kindness above all. Your child will be raised to love other people - regardless of who they are, what they look like, or from where they come.
My Husband, Kevin

Kevin is that one person that everyone else wants to be around. He joyful, energetic, and so very loving. I don’t know anyone who has even half the heart that Kevin does. He puts every fiber of his being into whatever it is that he’s doing. For as long as I’ve known him, Kevin has told me that he cannot wait for the day that he becomes a father; nothing is as important to him as raising a child. One of my favorite things about Kevin is how he interacts with children. There is something about his personality that makes kids of all ages open up and trust him immediately. There is nothing more sweet than watching him play with our friends’ children. His coworkers sometimes bring their kids in to work, and he drops everything to spend time with them. Recently, one of them told his mom “I love being around Mr. Kevin, he’s not like a real adult.” Kevin was born to be a dad, and I’m so thankful that I get to do this with him.
My Husband, Robbin

I was on the phone with my mom recently talking about how excited I was to be starting the adoption process. I said to her, “I’m not sure what I’m more excited about: having a baby or getting to parent that baby with Robbin.” Robbin is quiet and thoughtful, and he is always looking out for every detail to take care of our family. He loves and cares so deeply, and it shows in his every action. His students look to him for guidance, and the parents of his students adore him for the influential, positive role he plays in their kids’ lives. Robbin grounds our family with his quiet determination and wisdom, and he is a force of kindness to everyone that he touches. He is hardworking, passionate, and has spectacular talent as a musician, a teacher, and most importantly as a family man. I’m so honored to be partners in life with him, and I can’t even fathom being parents with anyone else. He will make a terrific father.
OUR HOME
We live in the suburbs of Atlanta. When we first pulled into the cul-de-sac that our house is nestled in, there were 8-10 children playing on their bikes and scooters right out in front of the house. Before even seeing the inside Kevin exclaimed, “This is our house!” Our neighborhood is the kind where kids play after school until they have to be home for dinner. It’s the reason we chose our community; it’s safe and values family. Close by are great schools and all of our extended family.
Our family

We are both so fortunate to have families who love and support us. Robbin has a very large family that all mostly live within 10 minutes of our house. Kevin has 2 brothers, parents, and other extended family that live within 2 hours of the city. They all support our desire to grow our family through adoption, and each person is caring and willing to help out however they can. This is just a small part of the community that your child will be born into.
Our Dogs
Our dogs are a big part of our lives and we love them so much. A couple of them even go with Kevin to work to help him teach service dogs how to help their future recipients. They love kids, and can’t wait to have a little human brother or sister to throw them a ball in their back yard.
Thank you for reading our profile and for allowing us to share a bit about our lives with you. We hope you will consider us to be the couple that raises your baby, giving him a life filled with love, happiness, and security. Your child will always come first in our lives, and he’ll know how brave your decision was for his future.

We can’t wait to be parents; this will surely be the greatest gift we could ever receive. We will raise your child in a home filled with love and laughter, where we teach the importance of respect and kindness of others. We will foster your child’s individuality and always love him unconditionally.

Thank you for your courage to choose adoption, and thank you for the opportunity to change our lives forever. We are truly, deeply grateful.

Kevin+Robbin